Issue 33 – September 2021

There are many people still subject to “stay at home orders” presenting challenges for both individuals and businesses. I sincerely hope you are keeping safe and well as we look forward to returning closer to normality. I would like to take this opportunity to thank, once again, those who have recently reached out to express support for the project. Please find below updates since our last newsletter

Appeal Decision

KEPCO’s appeal to the NSW Court of Appeal was dismissed this month. KEPCO is disappointed that the Court did not find in favour of the Project. KEPCO is now considering its next steps and is examining all possible options.

Farming Operations

KEPCO has completed a review of its farming operations and is now in negotiations with a prospective licensee for the use of the properties by the licensee for cropping and grazing purposes. This direction will result in the properties being utilised to their full potential whilst maintaining sustainable agricultural production.

Bylong General Store

After around 4 years of dedicated service operating the Bylong General Store, Jess Robinson has decided to step down as licensee. We thank Jess and her team for the wonderful hospitality all those years and hope her the best with her future endeavours and as a new mum.

A new licensee for the Bylong General Store is being sought. KEPCO has engaged Harcourts Adlington in Rylstone to promote the opportunity. We invite any interested parties to contact Harcourts directly.

Please keep safe and reach out to our team if you have any questions.

Yours sincerely,

Joseph Lee – Chief Executive Officer and President
